WESTWOOD HIGH SCHOOL
WESTWOOD, MASSACHUSETTS

Foreword

As we face the end of our high school days, with anticipation and apprehension, we realize how much we have grown at Westwood High. We have learned to be aware of our surroundings, of each other, and of ourselves. We have learned that the greatest successes come when we look to the past only for its lessons and to the future only for its incentives. Concentrating on the realities of the present, we have gained new insights into life, made new friendships, and developed new values.

The 1969 Green Years is a reflection of the events which have contributed to our growth. It is a remembrance of four years, lived as best we knew how, which marked both an ending and a beginning in our lives.

We
 shed
 a tear.
 but is it
 of joy or sorrow.
 it shines with a brilliant light from our past, but deeper within holds the shadows of our future. It mirrors the world we have long been a part of; that will longer be a part of us. We, like this tear that falls haltingly down our cheeks, leave you timidly but surely, turning not back.
 we love you, for you have been the nucleus of our lives, but today we must leave you. Our tear reaches our lips, tasting bittersweet with thoughts and memories;
 a tear of sorrow that so many yesterdays are over, but joyful of so many more tomorrows.

—Terrell Hamre

"Look to this day!"

Each day at Westwood has been one of success or disappointment, happiness or frustration. But they have each been important factors in our development, giving us a greater understanding of the world and ourselves. The ordinary days, as well as the outstanding ones, have served to carry us along towards the fulfillment of our goals.

*"It is life, the very life of life.
In its brief course are the verities and Realities of your Existence"*

These four years have not been merely preparing us for life; they were life, with all its pleasures and trials. The exams, the term papers, and the homework were tempered with the parties, the dances, and the games. Life at Westwood has not been stagnant—all its facets have been explored and utilized.

"The Continuance of Growth"

It would be impossible to measure how much we have grown here. We have undergone many changes since we entered as freshmen in '65. Our teachers, our experiences, and our friends have molded us into more mature, more responsible students who are now prepared to assume more demanding roles.

"The Glory of Action"

Action has never been lacking here. Our teams have always been ready to supply it for proud spectators. Occasional defeats were overshadowed by more frequent victories, as Westwood proved its excellence.

*"For Yesterday is but a Dream
And Tomorrow only a Vision
But Today well-lived makes every Yesterday a Dream of Happiness.
And Every Tomorrow a Vision of Hope."*

Dedication . . .

We, the Class of 1969, have chosen to dedicate our yearbook, as a token of our esteem, to Mr. Gail Thwing.

*To you, Mr. Thwing, we extend our sincerest thanks
 For your contagious good humor,
 For your unselfish dedication to our basketball team,
 For your long hours of work with the Conservation Club,
 For your willingness to listen to our problems,
 For always remaining calm and in control,
 And above all, for being a true friend.*

Because of your obvious dedication to your students and to Westwood High School, we dedicate this book to you.

Four Years Ago We Came To Westwood High . . .

we were supposed to be considering colleges and that we had to start that long, long series of those Saturday tests. And pay for them, even!

But we solved the problems one at a time. The Class, led by Joe Altimar, Wendy Biel, Stephanie Long, and Janis Cachelin voted to raise the class dues, for the first time in history, and we hit upon the brilliant idea of selling candy at basketball games. This temporarily alleviated our problem, and we went

Class History

Four years ago we came to Westwood High to be greeted with the first orientation day. We had the school to ourselves and tried desperately to memorize the location of the cafeteria, the gym, the stairs, and our lockers. But all that mental activity was futile for the next day we were hopelessly lost and upperclassmen delighted in directing us away from our classes. When we had finally achieved some semblance of organization we directed our energies towards sponsoring the Poverty Prance to fill our empty coffers. It didn't exactly fill them, but at least it provided officers Wendy Biel, Jay Boyle, Stephanie Long, and Janis Cachelin with the knowledge that we weren't entirely destitute.

Finally we became sophomores, with something besides our shoes to look down on, and the freshmen became the victims of our hidden hostilities. Our Orange Orgy turned out to be a little less, but what can you do with all those teachers around? Jay Boyle was our guiding light that year, assisted by Wendy Biel, Stephanie Long and Janis Cachelin. As sophomores we were perfectly content. We were no longer stepped on (so much) and the pressures of college preparation were in the far distant future. Little did we know . . .

The advent of September, 1967 found us self-assured juniors and for a few weeks we enjoyed the status. But then it hit us, from all sides. We were painfully short of the funds needed to finance the prom and our senior activities, we found on with the prom. Chairmen Terre Hamre, Priscilla Perkins, and Sandy Brown coordinated our efforts and, although we don't know exactly how, we converted the gym into an enchanting spectacle of wonder. Twilight on the Reef was a stunning prom, and it gave the girls a chance to wonder where the other girls got their gowns, and the boys a chance to be utterly uncomfortable. After the prom, we somehow muddled through SAT's Toys for Tots program, and we saw our band and drill team perform at Fenway Park, to salute national Toys for Tots Day.

Senior year will be remembered as the year of the infamous three session lunch, although most of us would rather forget it. It was also the year that officers Joe Altimar, Anne Murphy, Stephanie Long and Janis Cac-helin decided to fatten our still-undernourished treasury and tried not to think of what was in store for the next year.

And then we were seniors, much to our astonishment. We had reached our seemingly unattainable goal. And we had to file those endless college applications and ask teachers to write us glowing recommendations to make us seem future world leaders. That completed, we could give our wholehearted support to the Student Council by the sale of Westwood sweaters, which everyone who was anyone bought. Our play, Arsenic and Old Lace, helped out more, and we survived our crisis. All the activity kept us so occupied that we hardly noticed the year slipping by us. But the year ended and we prepared to encounter the world alone, confident that we could reach other seemingly unattainable goals.

Queen Ann Marie and her court

On May 17, 1968, the gymnasium was transformed into an aquatic wonderland as the junior class presented "Twilight on the Reef". Rare forms of sea life suspended in mid air and strikingly beautiful wall murals gave the impression of truly being under the sea. Music provided by Mr. Monaghan's dance band flowed from a garden of aquatic foliage. Queen Ann Marie Sullivan reigned from a shimmering oyster shell guarded by two flowered sea horses.

Chairmen Priscilla Perkins, Terre Hamre, and Sandy Brown, under the supervision of Mr. Baker, did an outstanding job of organizing the prom and directing the various committees.

Arsenic And Old Lace

On March 14 and 15 the Senior Class presented a combination of murder and comedy, Arsenic and Old Lace. Mrs. Gardner proved a very able director and she received invaluable help from student director Karen Hildebrant. John Ahigian, with his talent for assuming accents and creating unique facial expressions added laughs to the play, as did Linda Dixon and Joanna Polechronis as the two aunts who kept the bodies of "their gentlemen" in the cellar. The play provided excellent entertainment for all, and was a huge success.

1969 Green Years a success despite several set-backs

The Yearbook

Under the supervision of Mr. Flahive, the co-editors and staff of the yearbook pulled through several crises to complete the 1969 Green Years. Countless hours were spent taking pictures, laying out pages, writing articles, and balancing the budget. Photographers Betty Kussmaul and Art Peloquin deserve credit for their work as do proofreaders Kathy Conrad, Robin Borck, Lynn Johnson, Wendy Biel and Diane DeSantis. The entire staff is to be commended for their effort and their assistance to the editors.

The Student Council, headed by President Richard Moffatt, Vice President Joe Greuter, Secretary Christine Sullivan, and Treasurer B. J. Weiser has demonstrated competence in dealing with the government of the student body. They have continued the recently established Judicial Board, composed of the senior members, who warn and punish any student offenders. The Council also sponsored a breakfast program which was a great success until the revised bus schedule made the program impossible. A Toys for Tots Day drive, in co-operation with the Marine Corps was another project undertaken by the student council, and student response made it an overwhelming success.

Student Participation Through Student Involvement

The Westwood World Affairs Club

Under the guidance of Mr. Davis and officers Barbara Bush, Rick LaFontaine, Linda Coleman, James Amberson, and Pat Sloan, the Westwood World Affairs Club continues to be one of the high school's most active clubs.

W. A. C. members have participated in such programs as a Model UN, Student Forum, Radio Show, Simulation Television, and a trip to Washington D. C.

Crime Control, Narcotics, Black Heritage, and Communism represent the varied scope of interests that have afforded members a deeper understanding of domestic, national, and world wide affairs this year.

This year's Harlequin published two editors. Editor-in-Chief Sarah Taylor, under the supervision of Miss Dillon and assisted by the entire editorial staff, compiled a magazine of poems, short stories, essays, and sketches contributed by many talented students.

Talent displayed at 18th Annual Science Fair

This year's Science Fair was a great success due to a combination of conscientious effort and enthusiasm on the part of the participants and leadership on the part of the Science Fair Committee. The committee, under the leadership of Joe Morin, organized and supervised the Fair. The top three winners also went on to win first-place awards at the Regional Science Fair.

The Science Fair Committee did an excellent job arranging the 18th Annual Science Fair. The combined efforts of the officers Joe Morin, Jay Amberson, Dianne Balfour, and Eleanor Stetson, and their advisor Mr. Christos Sarris, produced another successful display of scientific talent.

The Ski Team, coached by Mrs. Gordon, had a fairly successful season, both in cross country and slalom competition. The team was divided into two teams, of boys and girls, which competed separately.

The Business Club, advised by Mr. Flahive, is the newest club in the school. This year the club sponsored four guest speakers, and made a field trip to the Prudential Center in Boston to observe office procedure and practice.

Highlights of the musical rades, intrastate concerts events.

The Westwood High Orchestra, also under the direction of Mr. Markarian, has displayed its excellence on numerous occasions. In addition to playing at many school events, including National Honor Society induction, the orchestra participated in an exchange concert with Newport, Rhode Island, and made a fine showing at The Southeastern District Music Festival.

For the nation to see

The Westwood High School Band, under the direction of Mr. John Markarian, and headed by President Jim Anderson, Secretary Martha Brink, Treasurer Neil Jackson, is one of the best in the state. This year, in addition to entertaining at football games, the band participated in exchange concerts with Springfield, Vermont and competed in the Southeastern District Music Festival. But the highlight of the year was December 1, when the band played at Fenway Park, at the invitation of the Boston Patriots. Westwood is justly proud of this talented group.

Marching Groups Perform Before National TV Audience

Majorettes

The majorettes, led by Co-Captains Judy Sheffield and Judy Gaetani, made half times much more attractive with their original routines. Their performances, along with those of trick twirler Nancy Martin, were outstanding all year, and especially at Fenway Park.

Under the leadership of Captain Linda Dixon and Mr. Markarian, the drill team has proven itself an outstanding group.

Color Guard

This year's Color Guard carried on the newly established tradition of performing at half time. Under the leadership of Captain Wendy Biel, the girls created some unusually attractive routines, which made them a more outstanding part of the band.

SPORTS

Team Undaunted Throughout

Football

Despite this year's disappointing record of 2-7, the Wolverines have maintained their seemingly undaunted enthusiasm. Westwood's encouraging victory over Bedford by a score of 12-6 foretold the exciting Thanksgiving Day game against Lincoln-Sudbury. In an extremely close and dramatic game Westwood won with a score of 16-14.

Co-Captains Jay Boyle and Ron Pearson provided outstanding examples of spirit and ability for the rest of the team.

The potential and speed shown by the juniors will undoubtedly lead to a more impressive record for next year's team.

Vaas breaks away.

Wolverines In Tech For Ninth Straight Season!

The Wolverines finished in second place this year compiling an 18-2 over-all record with a Dual County record of 12-2 dropping one to Dual County champ Acton, the other to Lynnfield. Tremendous helps to the team this year were captain John Morrison, center Steve Mitchell, and of course, Mr. Thwing with his usual superb job of coaching.

For the ninth consecutive year, Westwood qualified for the Tech Tourney. The Wolverines won their first game against Norwell, beating them by the wide margin of 92-76, but dropped the quarter-final game to Nauset, 94-80.

Westwood was the only team to beat Acton-Boxboro this year due to the tremendous performance of the Wolverine starting five, who all averaged double figures.

Emotions run high—and low.

Here we go again.

Eric comes up with the big save!

Under the leadership of Co-captains Jim Sheehan and Mike Duquette, Assistant Captain Bob Cooke, and Coach Tripp, Westwood again proved its ability in hockey. The record of 6-6-2 placed the team fourth in the Dual County League standings. The team's fierce devotion to their sport, their natural talents, and the fine coaching of Mr. Tripp proved a successful combination.

A special tribute must be given to Mike Duquette who not only made the first team on the All-Star Dual County League, but was also chosen Most Valuable Player.

Individual honors also went to Jim Sheehan and Eric Kristensen who received honorable mention on the All-Star squad.

Under the expert guidance of Mr. Flaherty, the winter track team again completed a successful season.
